

Summary

- A highly available application is resistant to scenarios that might otherwise make it unavailable.
- Kubernetes and RHOCp provide HA features, such as health probes, that help the cluster to route traffic only to working pods.
- Resource requests and limits help to keep cluster node resource usage balanced.
- Horizontal pod autoscalers automatically add or remove replicas based on current resource usage and specified parameters.